

How do I qualify for a personal licence?

To qualify for a personal licence the applicant must fulfil certain criteria. These are set out in the Act. The licensing authority must grant the licence if it appears that:

- the applicant is aged 18 or over
- no personal licence held by him has been forfeited within the period of five years before making the application
- he possesses an accredited licensing qualification, or is a person of prescribed description
- he has not been convicted of any relevant or foreign offence

If the applicant fulfils all these criteria, the licence will be granted. If any of the first three criteria are not met, the licensing authority must reject the application. The licensing authority must notify the chief officer of police for its area if it appears that an applicant has been convicted of any relevant or foreign offence, as set out above.

At Dadds LLP Licensing Solicitors we provide the training needed to obtain a personal licence.
